DEDICATION

Exceptional high school quarterback, turned boxing city finalist, turned outstanding area coach, this person has excelled in performance and instruction whether at the fifty yard line or where points X and Y intersect.

Born in Rochester, New York, this dynamic individual attended Aquinas School for Boys. His bachelor of arts degree was conferred by the University of Windsor, Canada, where he majored in English. Changing his major to mathematics, he later received his masters in education from Canisius College. He currently resides in Medina with his wife, Anne-Marie and his three children.

As a teacher at Royalton-Hartland, this thirteen year veteran has distinguished himself in both the English and Mathematics departments. In recognition of a multitalented person, wearing many hats, the staff of the 1976 Scope takes its hat off to you, Mr. Kerry Finger.

Congress of the United States, begun and held at the City of New York, on Wednesday, the fourth of March, one thousand seven hundred and eighty nine.

THE Conventions of a number of the States having at the time of their adopting the Constitution expressed a desire, in order to prevent misconstruction or abuse of its powers, that further declaratory and restrictive clauses should be added: And as extending the ground of public confidence in the Government will best ensure the beneficent ends of its institution

RESOLVED, by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, two thirds of both Houses concurring, that the following Articles be proposed to the Legislatures of the several States as amendments to the Constitution of the United States, all or any of which Articles, when ratified by three fourths of the said Legislatures, to be valid to all intents and purposes as part of the said Constitution, viz.

ARTICLES in addition to, and amendment of the Constitution of the United States of America, proposed by Congress, and ratified by the Legislatures of the several States, pursuant to the fifth Article of the original Constitution.

Article the first. After the first enumeration required by the first Article of the Constitution, there shall be one Representative for every thirty thousand, until the number shall amount to one hundred, after which the proportion shall be so regulated by Congress, that there shall be not less than one hundred Representatives, nor less than one Representative for every forty thousand persons, until the number of Representatives shall amount to two hundred, after which the proportion shall be so regulated by Congress, that there shall not be less than two hundred Representatives, nor more than one Representative for every fifty thousand persons.

Article the second. No law, varying the compensation for the services of the Senators and Representatives, shall take effect, until an election of Representatives shall have intervened.

Article the third. Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof, or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.

Article the fourth. A well regulated Militia, being necessary to the security of a free State, the right of the people to keep and bear arms, shall not be infringed.

Article the fifth. No Soldier shall, in time of peace, be quartered in any house, without the consent of the Owner, nor in time of war, but in a manner to be prescribed by law.

Article the sixth. The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated, and no Warrants shall issue, but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched, and the persons or things to be seized.

Article the seventh. No person shall be held to answer for a capital, or otherwise infamous crime, unless on a presentment or indictment of a grand jury, except in cases arising in the land or naval forces, or in the Militia, when in actual service in time of War or public danger; nor shall any person be subject for the same offence to be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb; nor shall be compelled in any criminal case, to be a witness against himself; nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation.

Article the eighth. In all criminal prosecutions, the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial, by an impartial jury of the State and district wherein the crime shall have been committed, which district shall have been previously ascertained by law, and to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation; to be confronted with the witnesses against him; to have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor, and to have the assistance of counsel for his defence.

Article the ninth. In suits at common law, where the value in controversy shall exceed twenty dollars, the right of trial by jury shall be preserved, and no fact tried by a jury shall be otherwise re-examined in any Court of the United States, than according to the rules of the common law.

Article the tenth. Excessive bail shall not be required, nor excessive fines imposed, nor cruel and unusual punishments inflicted.

Article the eleventh. The enumeration in the Constitution, of certain rights, shall not be construed to deny or disparage others retained by the people.

Article the twelfth. The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people.

Frederick Augustus Muhlenberg — Speaker of the House of Representatives

John Adams — Vice President of the United States, and President of the Senate.

ATTEST

John Beckley, Clerk of the House of Representatives.

"Go placidly amid the noise and the haste, and remember what peace there may be in silence. As far as possible without surrender be on good terms with all persons. Speak your truth quietly and clearly; and listen to others, even the dull and ignorant; they too have their story. Avoid loud and aggressive persons, they are vexations to the spirit. If you compare yourself with others you may become vain and bitter; for always there will be greater and lesser persons than yourself. Enjoy your achievements as well as your plans. Keep interested in your own career, however humble; it is a real possession in the changing fortunes of time. Exercise caution in your business affairs; for the world is full of trickery. But let this not blind you to what virtue there is; many persons strive for high ideals; and everywhere life is full of herosim. Be yourself. Especially do not feign affection. Neither be cynical about love; for in the face of all aridity and disenchantment it is as perennial as the grass. Take kindly the counsel of the years, gracefully surrendering the things of youth. Nurture strength of spirit to shield you in sudden misfortune. But do not distress with imaginings. Many fears are born of fatigue and loneliness. Beyond a wholesome discipline, be gentle with yourself. You are a child of the universe no less than the trees and the stars; you have a right to be here. And whether or not it is clear to you, no doubt the universe is unfolding as it should. Therefore be at peace with God, whatever you conceive Him to be. And whatever you labors and aspirations, in the noisy confusion of life keep peace with your soul. With all its shame, drudgery and broken dreams, it is still a beautiful world. Be cheerful. Strive to be happy.

– from the poems of Max Ehrmann

Language

Learning a language today is fun because there are so many ways to approach the subject. In earlier times, the main idea was to learn the grammar and be able to translate from one lanuguage to another. Now there is more emphasis on learning to speak and being able to communicate. This purpose is aided by the use of records, tapes, films and songs.

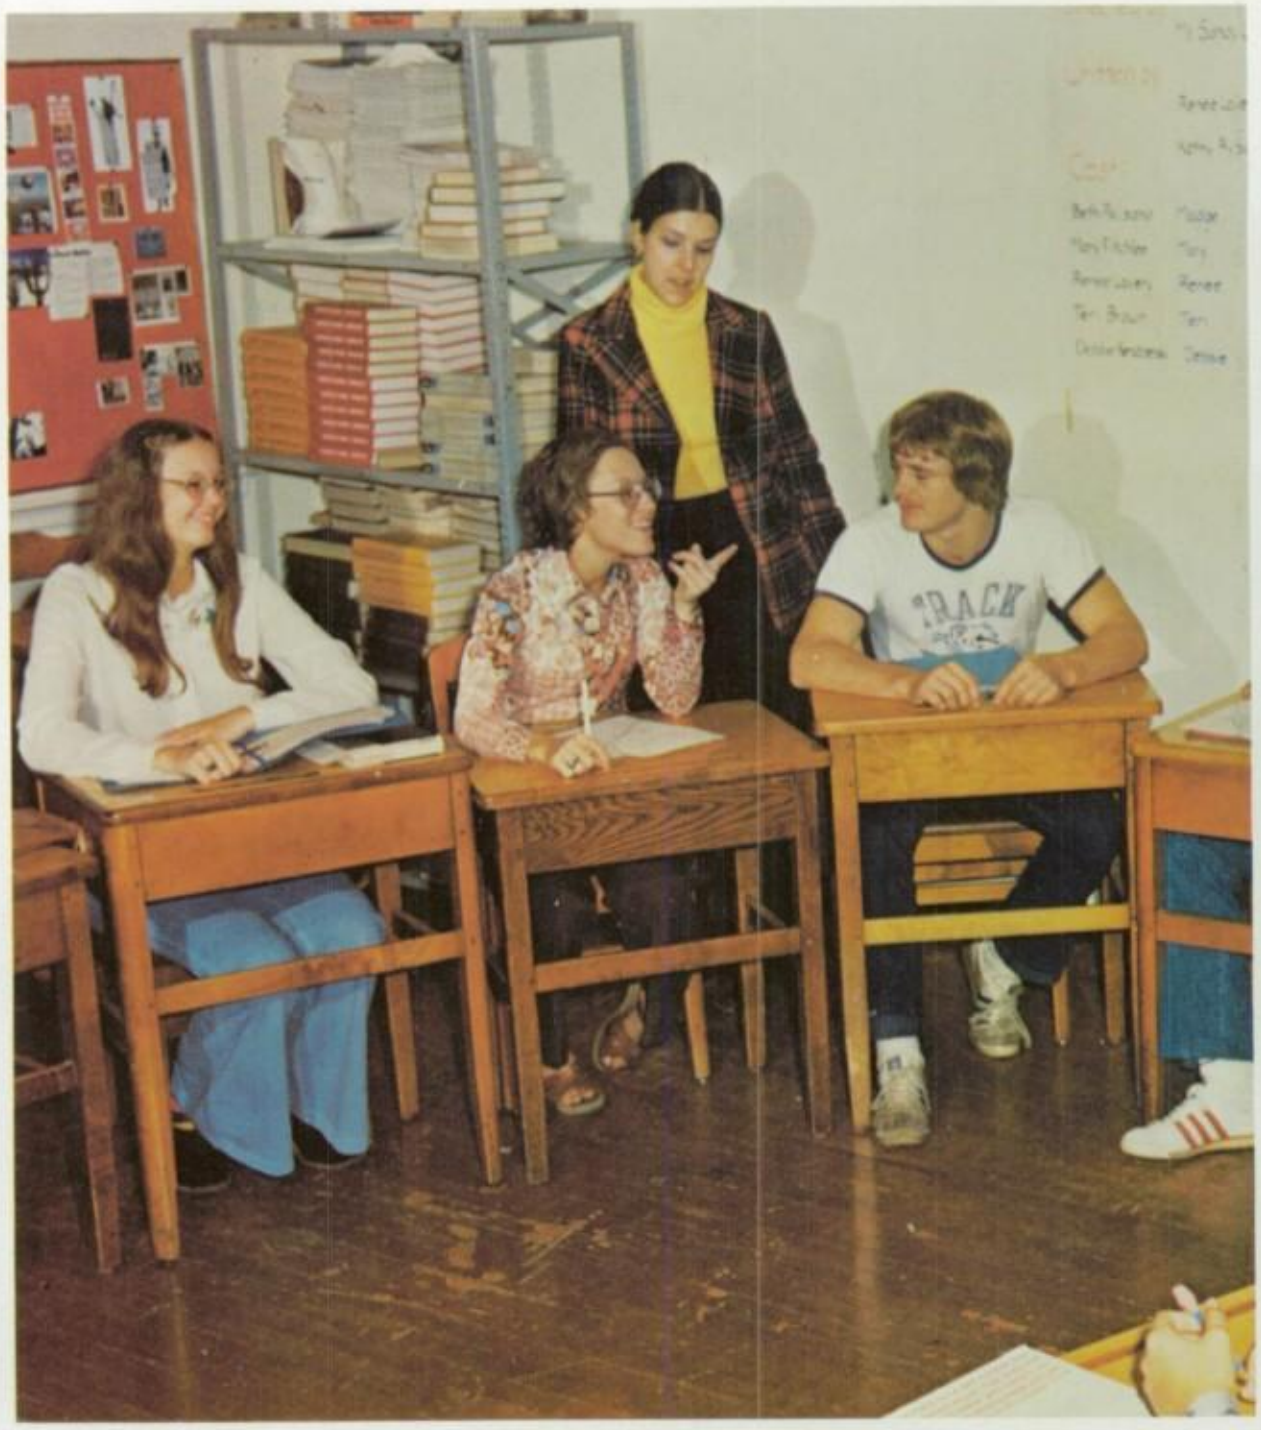
Social Studies

To many people, Social Studies is a dead body of facts. In the past this may have been true. Today, Social Studies is alive and vital as it serves as a method of inquiry. The various courses are designed to stimulate perception of a fact as a tool for further learning rather than as a end in itself. Enlarging concepts and approaching meaningful generalizations characterize the learning process as the study of each topic progresses.

English

Armed with a McGuffy reader, a trilinear eye for penmanship and a burning ear for elocution, the English teacher of the past sought to bridge the communications gap by erecting complex constructions, designed to diagram the logic of the language.

Today basic skills are still stressed, but are directed at aiding effective communication. The student's various endeavors culminate in the senior year when each person chooses his own vehicle for expression, be it in satire and humor, journalism, modern communications, or other various English electives.

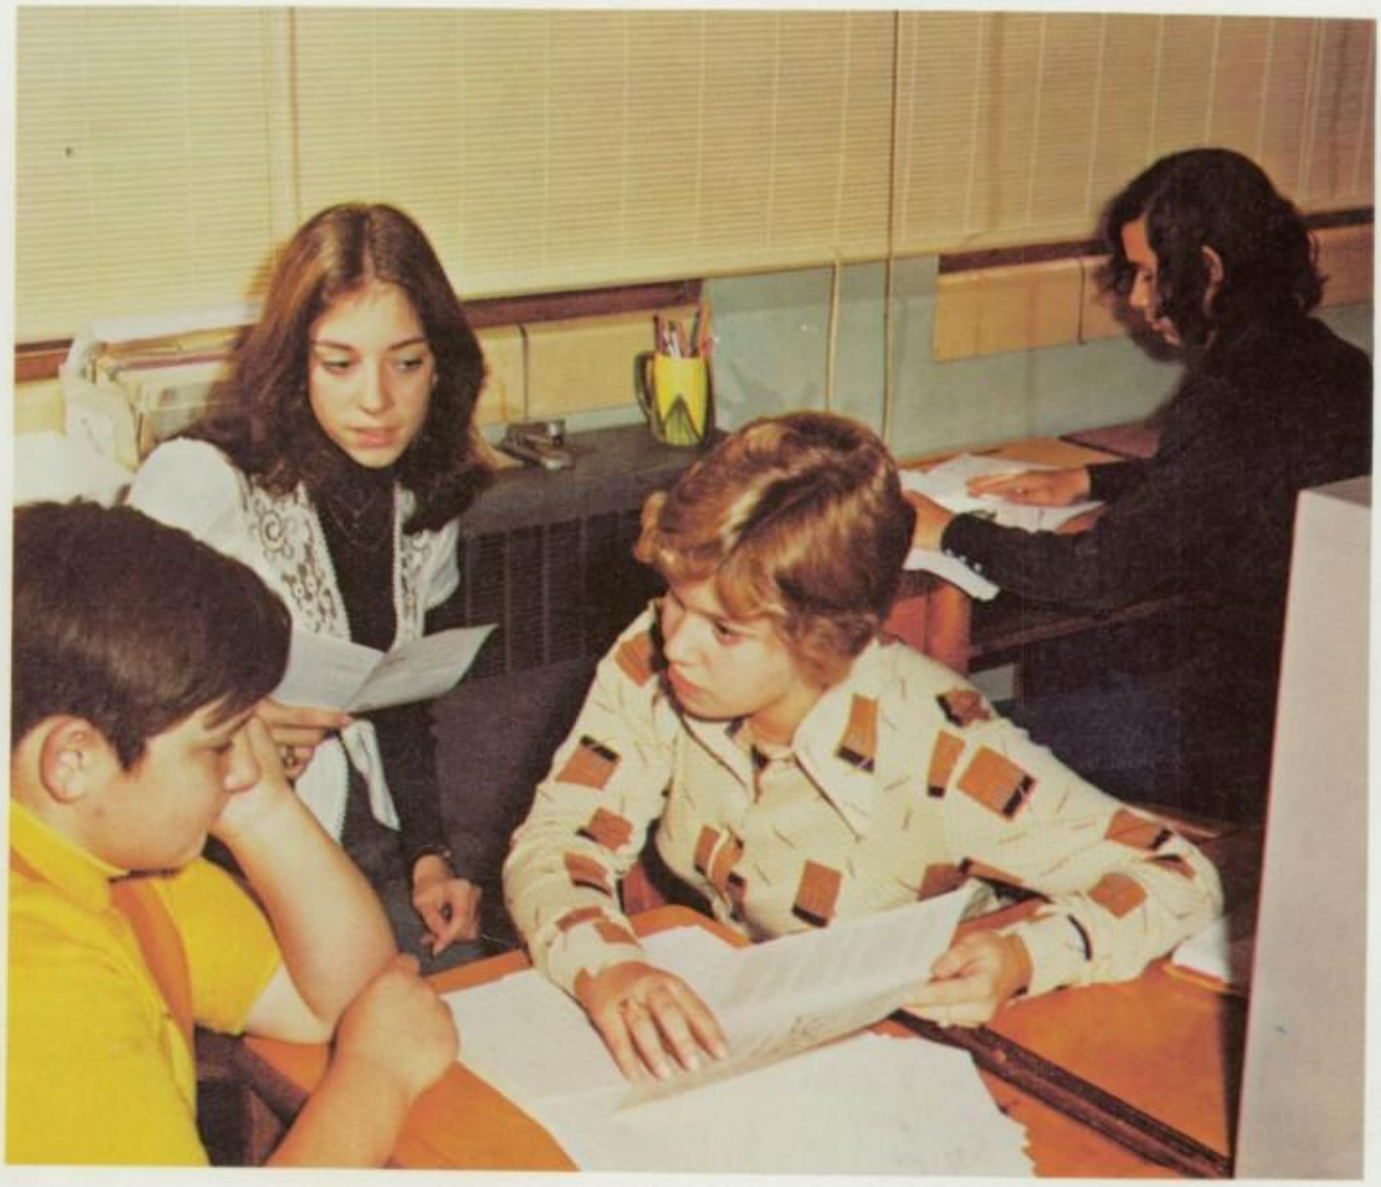


Reading

Reading is a complicated process of unlocking unfamiliar words, comprehending what is read, and then applying what is learned to life's situations.

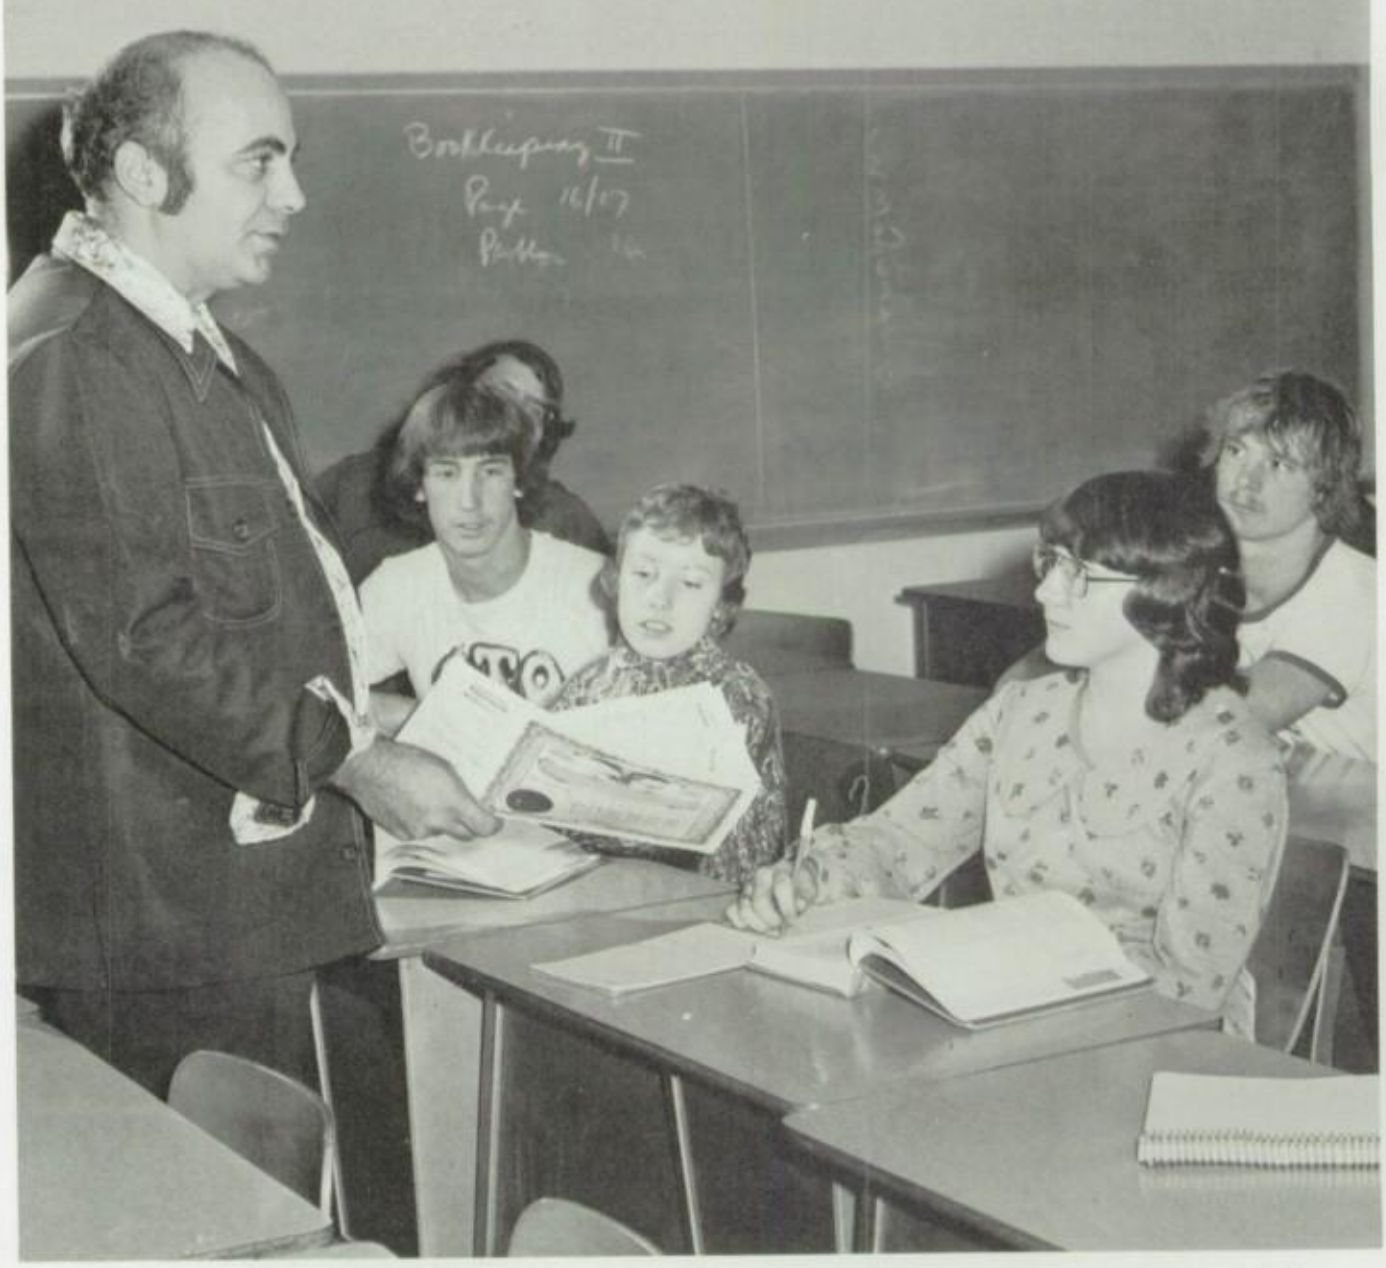
In today's complex skill for survival, one of the most important changes in the reading program is the greater concern for those experiencing reading problems. There are now improved methods of diagnosing reading difficulties. Availability of more attractive and multi-level materials aid the student in achieving at his own pace.

The major goal is still to help the student be able to communicate effectively whether he is reading, listening or writing.



Business

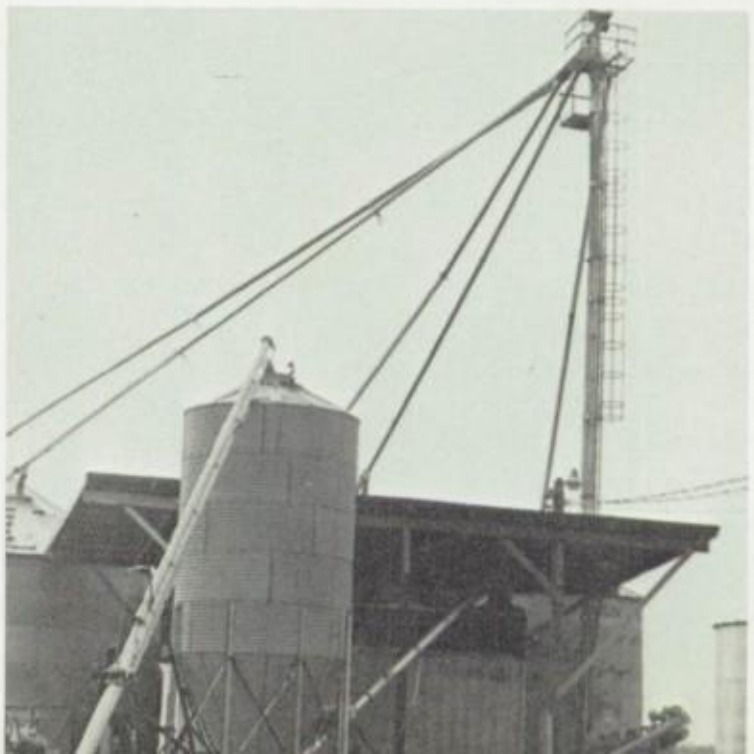
Business, an often elected major, has taken on many modern aspects. Presentation has moved from tedious lecture to more fundamental, practical work. Methods, such as shorthand, have also changed greatly. Moving from the Pittman to Gregg method requires much less detailed work and memorization from the student. Machinery in the office is primarily electric. This makes all future secretaries silent worshipers of Ben Franklin!



Agricultural Department

The agricultural department program at Roy-Hart has changed to keep pace with our changing times. Courses and clubs such as Ag. Mechanics and F.F.A. have been added to the list of agricultural studies.

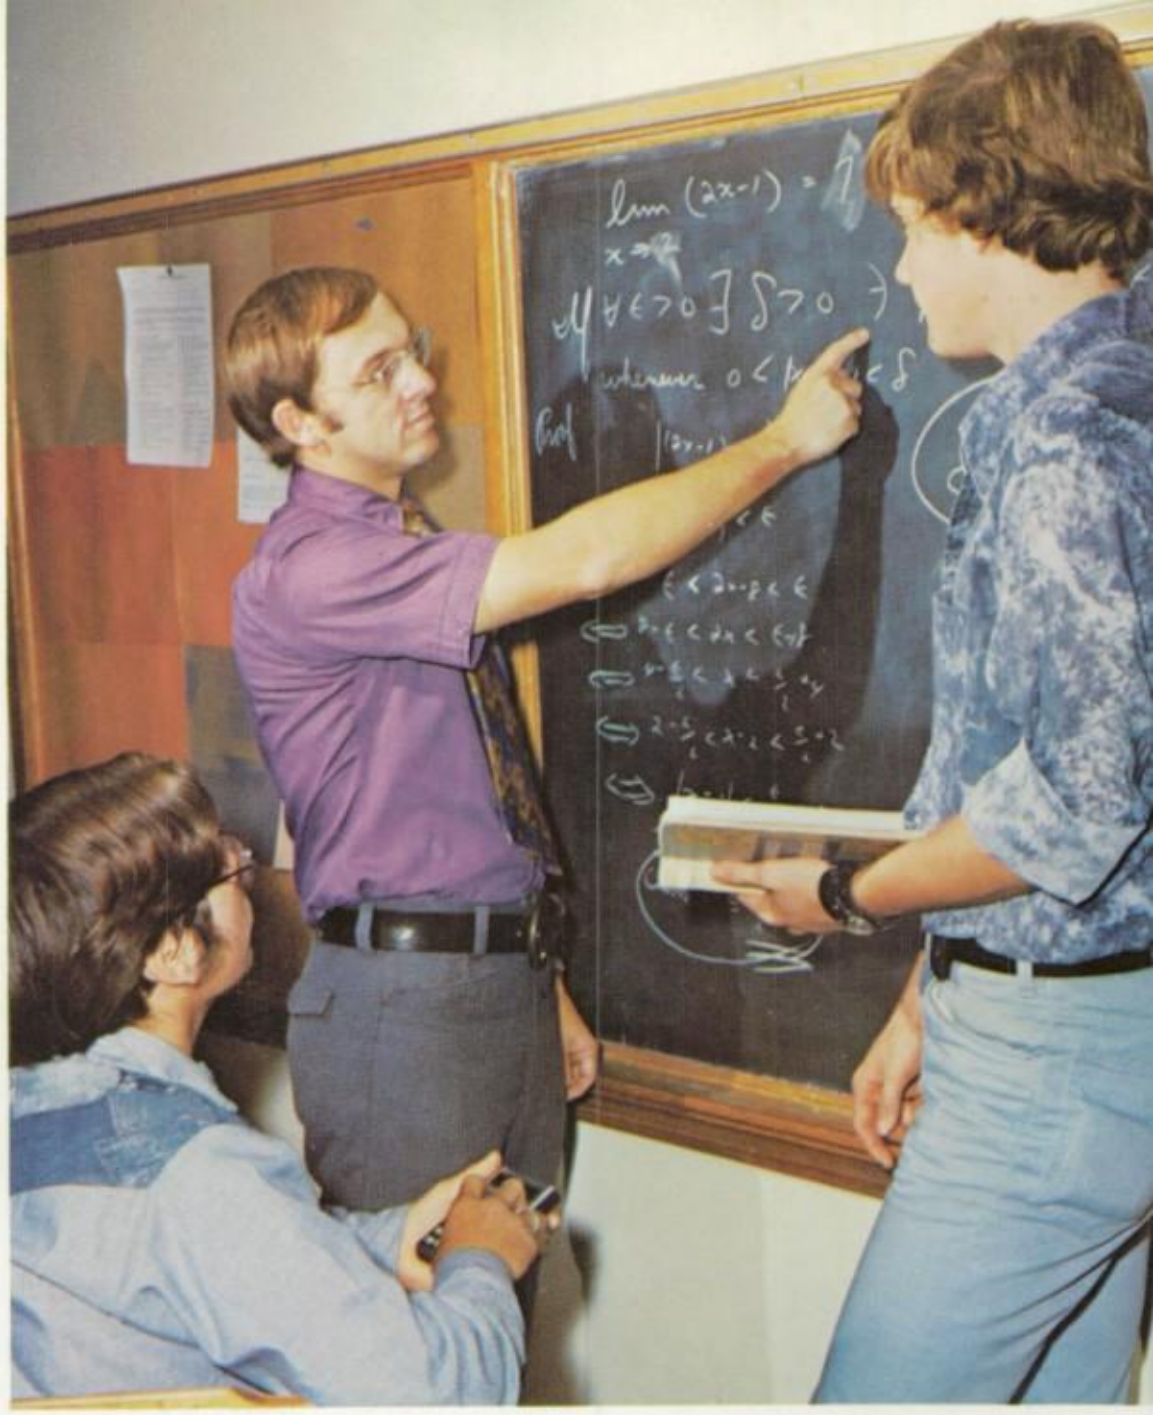
Today, much more emphasis is placed on mechanics and management as farming becomes a large scale mechanized business.



Math

The early 60's brought with them a gradual introduction of present "new math". Teaching methods of extensive memorization became a thing of the past. Modern theory of clearer understanding and a more precise definition of terms took its place.

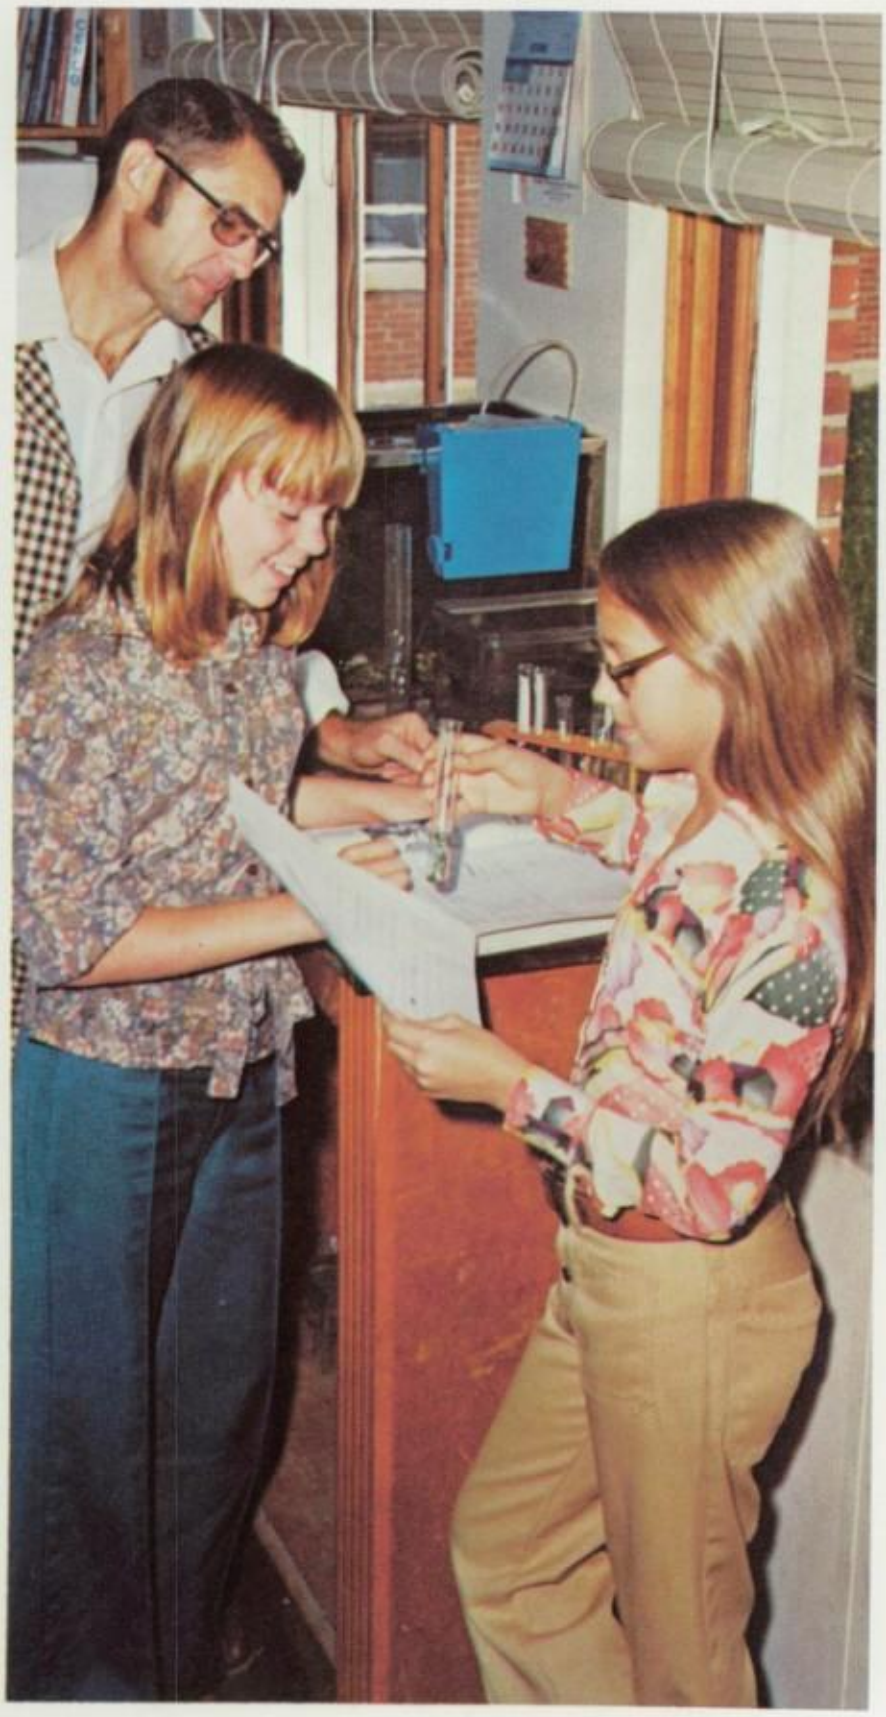
As of 1974, in association with Niagara University and the Board of Education, college credit calculus was introduced for senior math students. Award winning presentation of this course includes college level assignment manuals and video tape lessons.

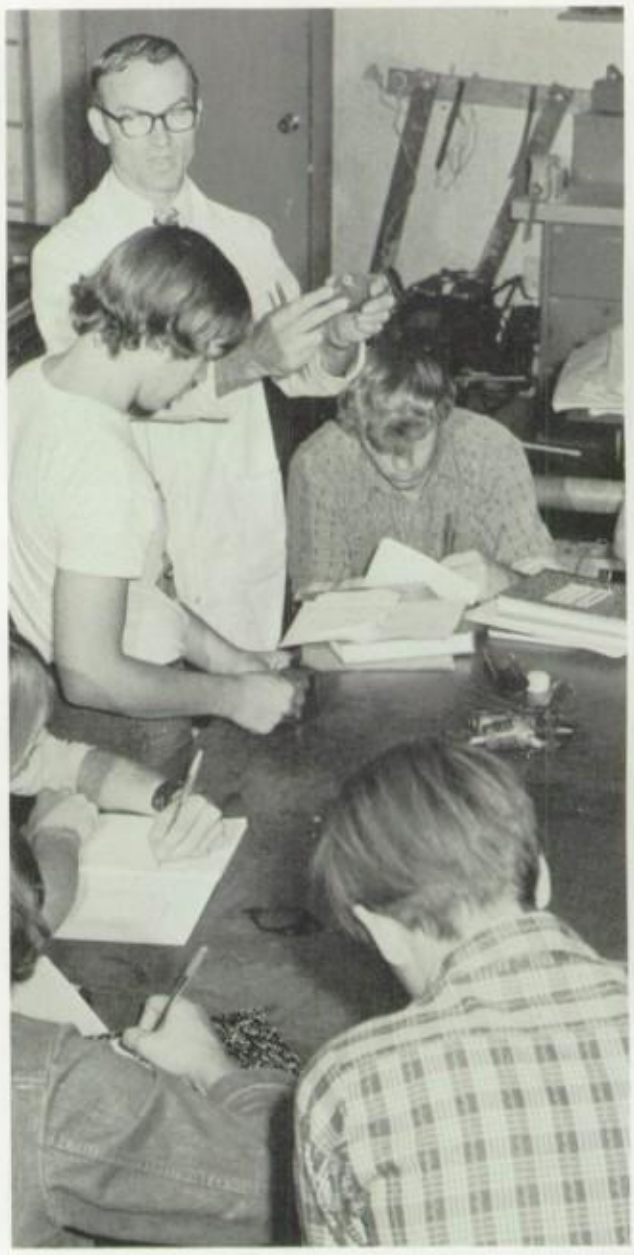


Science

OPPOSITE PAGE:

Perhaps the area of education to have changed the most since the beginning of our country and our school has been in the field of Science. In 200 years, it has been developed from "incidental Nature Study" to a vast complex of learning affecting nearly every aspect of our lives. At Roy-Hart, Earth Science and Advanced Placement Chemistry are the most recent courses to have been instituted in the curriculum. Dr. Herbert Keonig, head of the Science Department, further explained the changes in Science. Its basic philosophy has shifted "from a fact memorizing orientation to one of fact finding". The increasing role of laboratory creates a "Hands On Science" vitally important for new discoveries and problem solving.





Industrial Arts

Like most everything else, the Industrial Arts Department has changed with the times. Within the last few years, students in automotive shop have witnessed the evolution of the electronic ignition. Those working with metals make use of new ceramic cutting tools. The preparation and use of woods has been revolutionized by the introduction of new types of glue and lamination processes. The change of immeasurable consequence, currently being put into use, is the conversion to the metric system.

In a highly technological society of rapid development and instant obsolescence, students of industrial arts are afforded a firsthand opportunity to monitor and and keep up with the times.

Physical Education

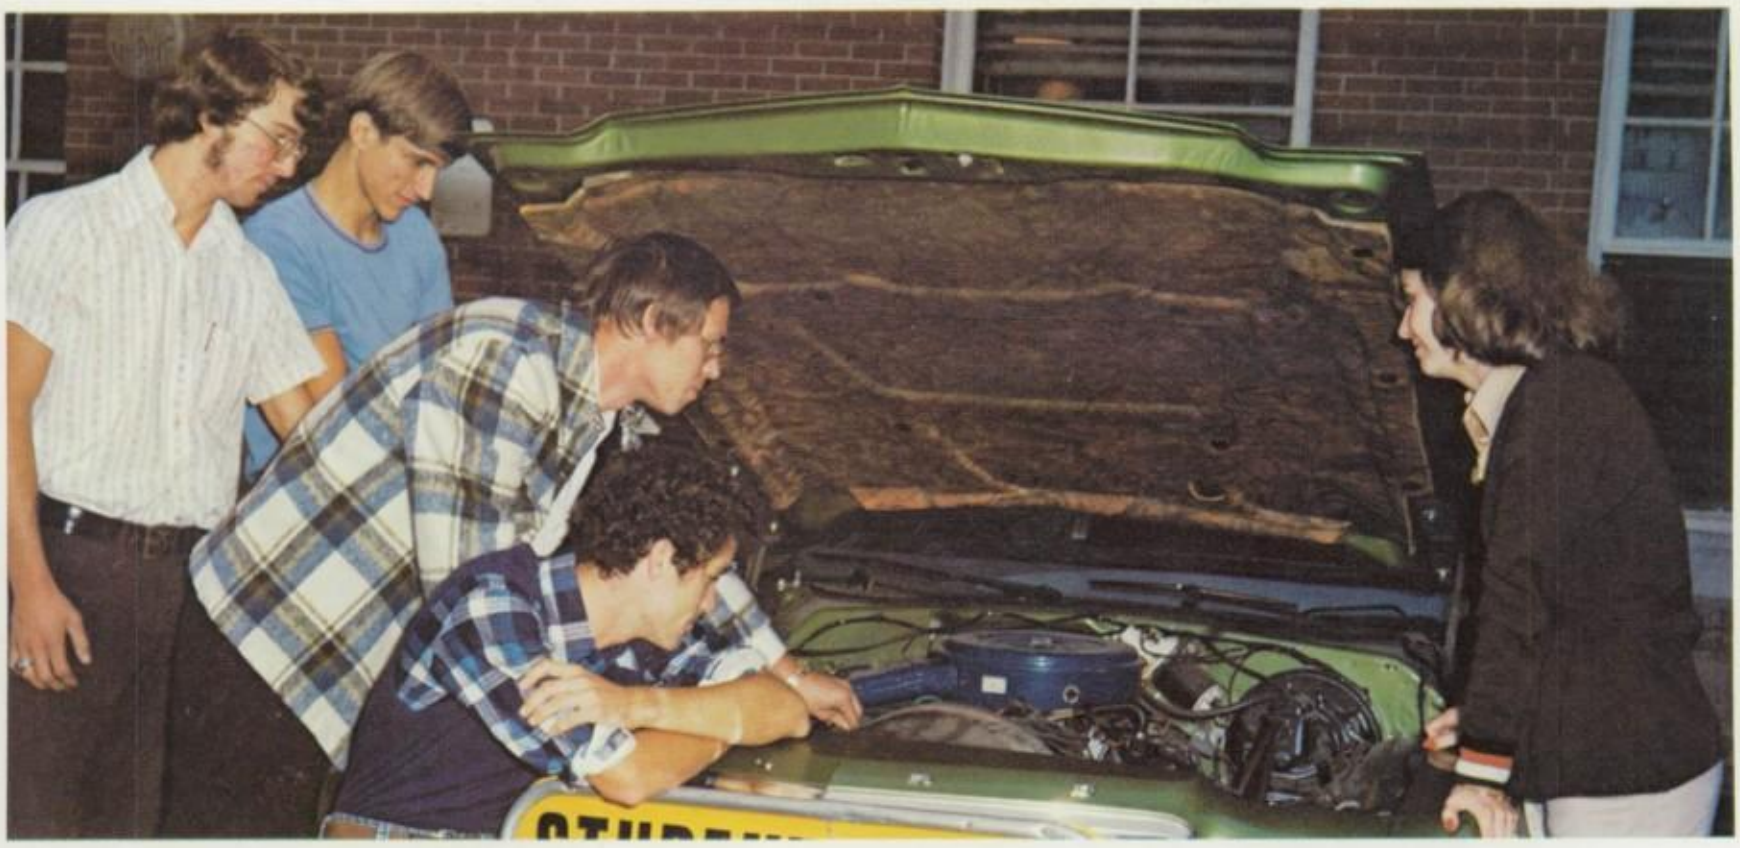
The physical education program of the past was not clearly defined or mandatory, but as increasing importance has been placed upon physical fitness, the complete program of today gradually evolved.

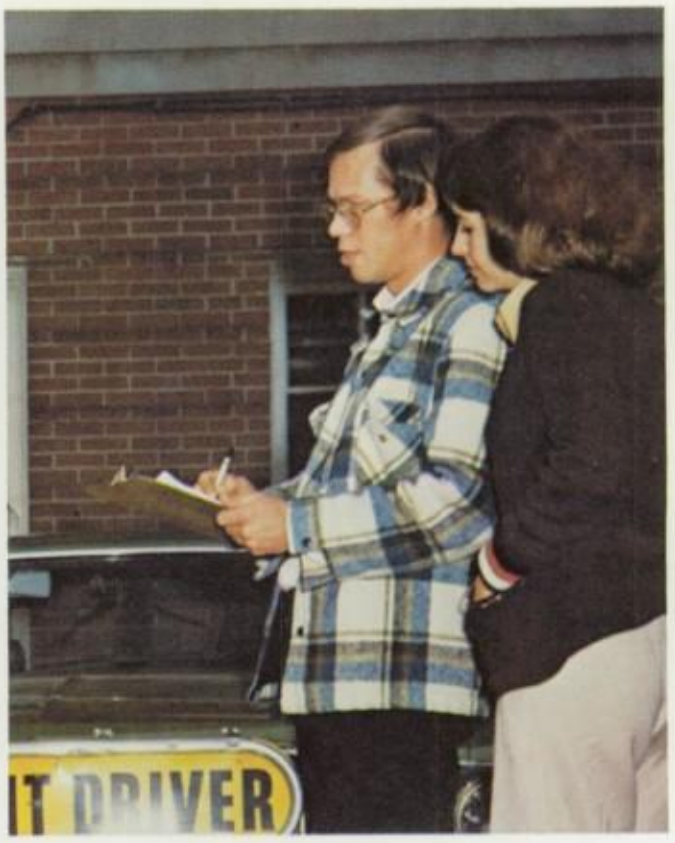
Currently a variety of activities is offered to satisfy everyone's interests. We have built a great nation, and are now helping to build a strong generation to make it even greater.

Home Economics

The frivolous arts of food preservation, sewing by hand, clothing repair and the making of undergarments from the latest, drab, hard-to-care-for fabrics were some of the areas emphasized.

Today, Home Economics is open to boys, as well as girls. The program is family-living orientated, including such areas as family relationships, marriage, the young single and the management of time and money.





Driver Education

The teaching of Driver Education has changed most with the development of more advanced designs in automobiles and with the modernization of todays highways. With the addition of newer safety measures and improved teaching methods, the new driver is given a head start towards becoming a competent, safe driver. The method of Defensive Driving has been developed, making the new driver more aware and watchful of the other drivers around him. He learns to foresee hazards before the occur so he can act early and avoid collisions.

Both the classroom, and the in-the-car parts of Driver Education are important guides that aid the new driver.

Art

Art education has changed radically from the past. In June, 1940, the comprehensive art regents contained the following question: "Using pencil, draw in light and shade a group composed of a rectangular tray on which is placed a cup, saucer, cream pitcher and folded napkin."

Today, art avoids rigid, constrained and limited projects, the emphasis being placed on a visual presentation of ideas.

Music

Rock? Unheard of! And so it was, back in the days of thick records, running at 78, producting scratchy monophonic sounds. Entirely housed in room 132, the music department of the past worked with one band for grades seven through twelve, a small girl's chorus and one music class per grade, to achieve their major objective of reading music.

Through a diversification of endeavors, including two bands and a mixed chorus of one hundred and thirty, the main objectives of music have become enjoyment, and the pleasure of participation. The present music suite aids in the ability of the department to conduct a variety of activities in an informal atmosphere.

Through the ages, libraries have served as a depository for the totality of human knowledge. The preservation of literature and recording of history for posterity have been the traditional purpose of libraries.

Today, libraries add a new dimension to their traditional roles. People, tall or short, young or old, individuals, small or large groups are now the foremost concern of librarians. You; you're the one!

Elgie J. Lewis was the foreman of the tin can department of the Ontario Preserving Company and the inventor of a pineapple peeler, a string bean and soup stock cutter and a tin can tester. In 1891, he built a two story factory on Mechanic Street, west of the North Vernon Street bridge, where he manufactured hundreds of thousand of tin cans for the Batavia Preserving Company, Mr. Lewis' machines were shipped to all parts of the world.

MEDAL OF HONOR WINNERS

"A good memory is an essential element of genius." — J. F. Nisbet

Sgt. Alonzo Smith, born in the Town of Hartland, enlisted in the 7th Michigan Volunteer Infantry, while working in Michigan in 1861. He was wounded at the battle of Antietam in September 1862, and also at Gettysburg, Pennsylvania, in July 1863, Awarded the Medal of Honor for "capture of flag of 26th North Carolina Infantry, Confederate States of America, at Hatchers Run, Virginia on October 27, 1864", he returned to Middleport and worked a farm for many years.

Sgt. Henry Bickford enlisted at Middleport, New York in September, 1861 in Co. E, 8th New York Cavalry and was awarded the Medal of Honor for "capture of an enemy flag at Waynesboro, Virginia, on March 2, 1865".

Pvt. James Congdon enlisted at Middleport, New York, in September 1861, under the name of James Madison. He served in Co. E, 8th New York Cavalry and was awarded the Medal of Honor for "recapture of General Cook's Headquarters Flag at Waynesboro, Virginia, on March 2, 1865".

A pioneer settler in the vicinity of Middleport, Asher Freeman came to Niagara County in 1814. Purchasing six hundred and forty acres from the Holland Land Company, he settled on a farm one mile south of Middleport, in the town of Royalton. He made successive purchases, and ultimately owned over one thousand acres. An old-line whig and pronounced abolitionist, Mr. Freeman served the town of Royalton in the capacities of justice of the peace and town supervisor. He passed away in 1853 at the age of seventy-nine.

Belva Ann Lockwood, champion of women's rights and first woman candidate to run for the Presidency of the United States, was born near Middleport on October 24, 1830. She grew up and was schooled in the town of Royalton, and at the age of eighteen, she was married to Uriah H. McNall, but was widowed several years later. Left with a young daughter, she resumed teaching, after attending the Gasport Academy and Genesee College at Lima.

Her first few teaching positions were at Lockport Union High School, Gainsville and Owego. The rebuffs she experienced in her efforts to secure equal rights for female students and equal pay for equal work resulted in her move to Washington, D. C., where she established a successful co-educational school.

On March 11, 1868, she married Rev. Ezekiel Lockwood who encouraged her to secure equal rights for women. Meeting further ridicule, she later graduated from the National University of Law, upon getting President Grant to sign her diploma, as the faculty had refused to bestow such recognition on a woman. After six years, in 1879, she got the Lockwood Bill through congress, which enabled her and all succeeding female attorneys to practice before the supreme court of the United States. In 1884 she became the official candidate of the Equal Rights Party for the Presidency, gleaning 4149 votes from a male populace.

She died in Washington, D.C., May 19, 1917, completing a distinguished career as a champion of equality.

Warren Hull, a native Gasport was the emcee of the popular game show, "Strike It Rich", which had been nationally produced on radio and television several times weekly.

Son of John and Laura Shafer Hull, Warren spent his adolescent years working in the family business, the Friend Manufacturing Company. He graduated from Lockport High School in 1922 and had been an active participant in the school theatricals and band.

For two years he attended the Eastman School of Music. He later gained further professional experience in the various choruses, theatrical experience companies and radio shows of which he was a part. Invited to Hollywood for a Warner Brothers screen test, Hull played leads in thirty-six films and worked in West Coast radio.

"Under this rough exterior lies hid a mighty genius."
– Horace

"Many have genius, but wanting art, are forever dumb."
– Longfellow

"Unless one is a genius, it is best to aim at being intelligible."
– Anthony Hope

"It is the privilege of genius that to it life never grows commonplace as to the rest of us."
– J. R. Lowell

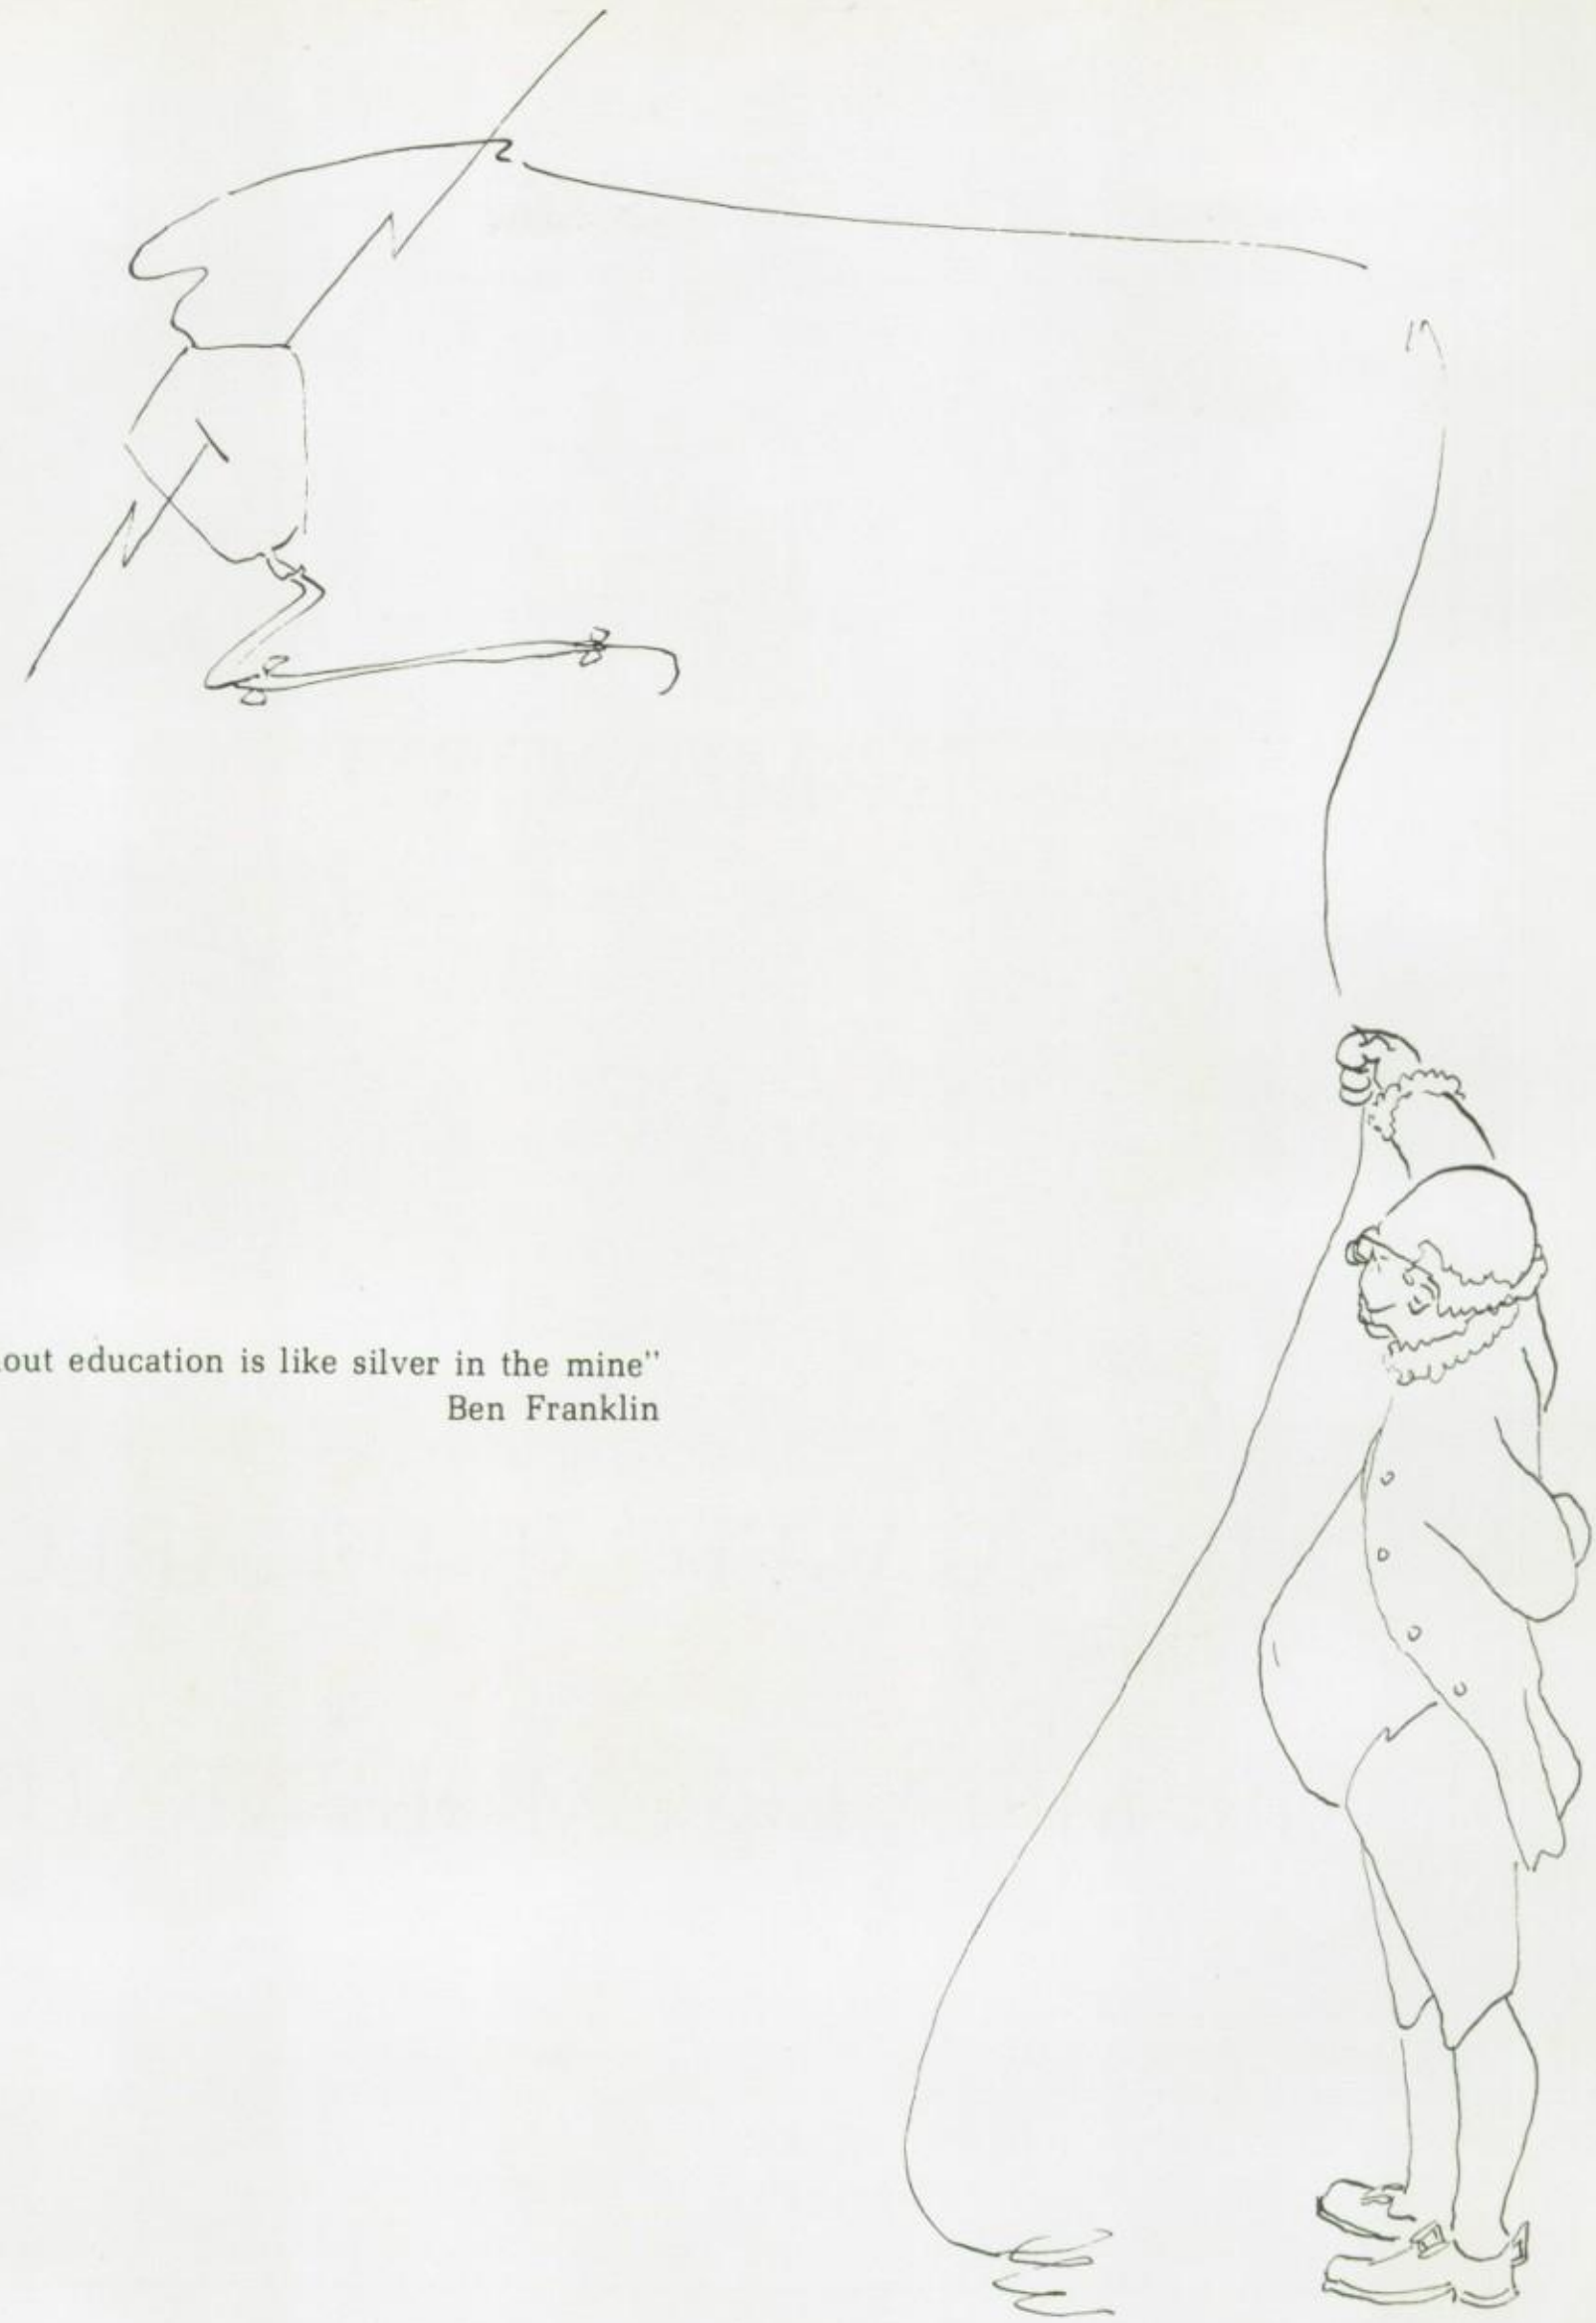
Theme

To be ingenious is to soar beyond, in momentary fight or through time; to be the brunt of the joke for Fulton's Folly, or stigmatized as the inventor of the left-hand toothpick. Ingenuity unmasks the fool or the famous, but always, the free-thinker.



"Genius without education is like silver in the mine"
Ben Franklin
